

The False Prophet

Satan isn't totally stupid. He sends the most corrupt but pious-looking people he can find to take over the world's churches (Jesuits, etc), and they destroy the law of God from within ("Yea, hath God said?"). Then when someone like myself enters a church that has had no laws for at least a generation or so, hoping to try and awaken and save them, they quickly see folks like me as being "mean" and "hateful" because I am trying to put rules in place that they never knew before. They had never had such rules, because unbeknownst to them the government plan was to slowly teach all the churches to ignore any rules for governance come of a loving God, where then yes, guys like myself would then eventually look like a cruel and divisive intruder, since they have no real rules in their fun church, and the only rules they have in life are from their other god—government god. (But then it gets worse...) And since government god is getting carried away with taking more and more from the people in taxes and slowly reduced freedoms, etc, being so cruel with all of its increasing and harsher rules, the church people look even more resentfully at those like me, who are trying to tell them that if they simply get back to Father's easier, loving laws, He'd then have mercy on them and squash their growing and overshadowing evil government for them (2Chronicles 17:11). But sadly they only see this as additional laws they must try to follow, and they have already grown to truly hate all laws and rules like never before, shoving those like myself right back out in the cold next to the true Christ where we now both stand at the door and knock, the fearful people in their locked churches not realizing that the Father's laws and promises are the only way out, having been successfully conditioned to trust government god, although they, at the same time hate government god. Their televisions have become their passage of escape from the reality of government god, but again, they do not also realize that the television is actually government god's greatest drug for keeping them tightly locked in their own chains. Worse than heroin, the addiction to television is the fowler's snare—satan's false prophet!
